

Growth / Sales Intern (m/f/d)

viable is a consulting firm, agency, and development house all in one. viable means feasible: we help companies develop innovative digital products that make a difference. What drives us are encounters on eye-level, appreciation, and value creation. We learn from and with each other, working hand in hand. That's why our team is currently looking for two new helping hands.

What inspires you

If you're passionate about driving growth, sales, and contributing to impactful projects, then we have the perfect opportunity for you! It motivates you to learn new things while working with different people and to be able to contribute your own ideas.

How you like to work

Early bird or night owl? Office or home office? Thanks to flexible working hours and the option of remote work, it doesn't matter. However, we ask you to be in the centrally located office at the Museumsquartier in Vienna regularly to catch up with your team.

The team and your tasks

Join our start-up atmosphere and experience an open feedback culture where you can learn from experienced entrepreneurs and consultants. As a growth/sales intern, you'll have a range of exciting responsibilities, including:

- Supporting the acquisition of new projects: This will be your main focus, providing ample room for testing, implementing, and refining strategies.
- Unleashing your creativity: Come up with innovative ways to market our services online and, if it's a good idea, even offline!
- Bringing ideas to life: Be involved in implementing various initiatives and projects.

By the way...

Invitations to shared lunches in the trendy 7th district, fruit, and cookies are naturally provided. But you don't go to work just for that. You go because you love what you do.

Sounds too cool to be true? It isn't. At viable, that would be your job! A job that, depending on your qualifications - you know how it goes - brings you a gross monthly salary of at least € 1,500.

We're looking for you if you recognize yourself here. You may not be all of these, but the more you are, the better:

- A student or bachelor's graduate in business administration, marketing & sales, or management.
- Experience (internships, part-time jobs, ...) in the sales - marketing area.
- You like to work with Sales Methods and Sales Tools such as LinkedHelper and are up to date with the tech scene.
- Maybe you've already worked in the technology sector of a creative agency or consulting business.
- Proficient in using MS Office (PowerPoint, Excel, Word, Outlook).
- Highly motivated and proactive.
- An organized person with an eye for detail.
- Proficient in both German and English - you feel comfortable with both languages.
- You are at the end of your studies, searching for an internship which can lead into a full-time job directly afterwards.

We'll find you if...

...you send us your resume and a short cover letter to hello@viable.at. And tell us why you are exactly the right person for the job!

We also welcome references, links to projects, and anything else you consider important for your application.
